JA JUNIOR ACHIEVERS ACHIEVE...

Wheelabrator was well represented in the award department at the annual Junior Achievement banquet held late in April. Congratulations to the following youngsters who were finalists in the "Officers of the Year" contest:

Julie Weinkauf, President of "Glowbrite," sponsored by Sibley, who took a third place in the President category; sister, Beth Weinkauf, who took a first place in the Vice President of Personnel category (Beth's company was "River City Products III, sponsored by Indiana Bell Telephone). Julie and Beth are the daughters of Production Control Specialist, Joe Weinkauf.

Janice and Lori Dobbs, daughters of Ed Dobbs, Balcrank Light Assembly, were officers of the Wheelabrator-sponsored "Active Dynamics."

Janice took top honors in the Treasurer category and sister, Lori, took third place as Vice President of Production.

Other officers of "Active Dynamics" taking honors were: Ann Freel, first place Safety Director and Tammy Breden who took third place honors as Corporate Secretary. (Active Dynamics took a third place in the Best Annual Report category.) Serving as Awards Judges were: Bruce Novak, Treasurer category; Ed Huemmer, Safety Director category.

Thanks to the Wheelabrator personnel who week after week gave guidance and expertise to all the youngsters: Barton Bullis; Ken Deka; Mike Sheer; Orion Yeandel; John Earl, Co-ordinator; Dave Lange; Elaine McCool; Ken Rinkenberg and Jim Robbins.

Walt Wolf, Production Control, receives recognition for his work as Past President of the Advisors' Board of Directors.

Congratulations to Steel Fab's enthusiastic Dave Lange, recipient of the "Top Advisor of the Year" award.

Janice (l) and Lori (r) Dobbs receive congratulations from their proud parents.

The Weinkaufs — daughter Julie (standing, right), Beth (seated).

IT WAS A REALLY BIG SHOW...

During the week of April 21, the city of St. Louis played host to the thousands of foundrymen from here and abroad who traveled to that city to attend the American Foundrymen's 84th Casting Congress and Exposition.

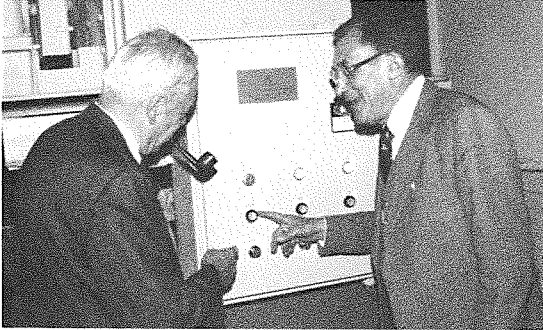

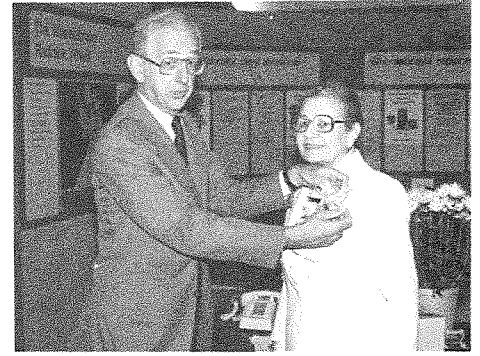

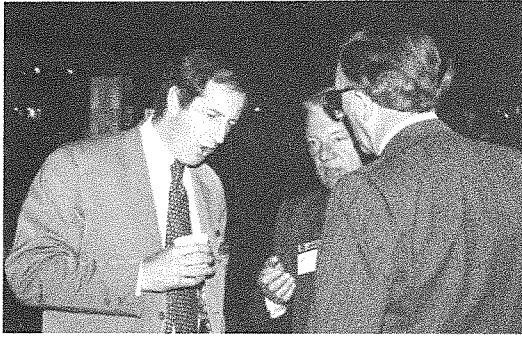

The Exposition, held every other year, was the largest AFS show ever, featuring over 135,000 square feet of exhibits at the new St. Louis Convention Center.

Our division, a major supplier to the metal castings industry since 1909, highlighted its exhibit with the introduction of the T-Line, our new family of batch-type blast cleaning equipment which provide more cost-effective cleaning, simplified maintenance, and new load-size capacities to the foundry industry.

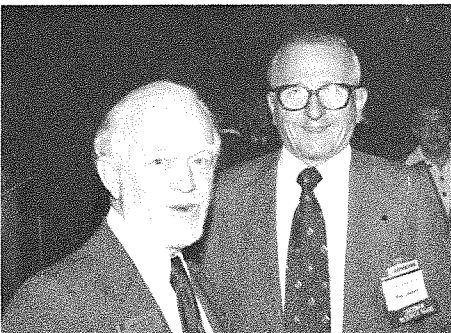

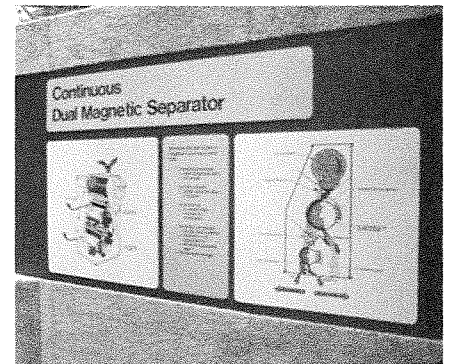

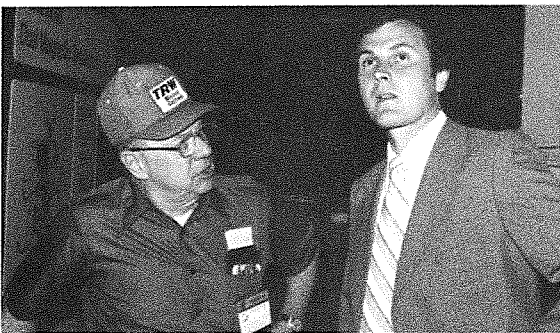

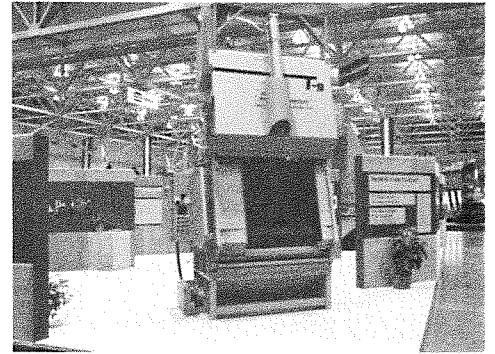

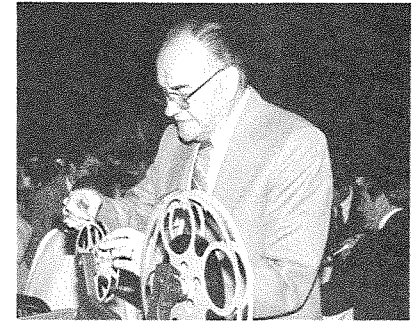

Other display areas in our 2100 square foot exhibit included sand reclamation systems, air pollution control equipment, special blast cleaning installations, abrasives and parts, and foundry-related products from other Wheelabrator-Frye divisions.

"Stringer" photographers, Harold Schulte, Director-International Engineering, and Marketing Manager Bob Riordan, provided the following photo coverage of our big show.

...AND PRIOR TO THE SHOW TEAMWORK WAS THE KEY-

The realization of an exhibit at a trade show is another example of teamwork. The successful "telling of our story" at the recently held Foundry Show is thanks to the effort and dedication of all departments.

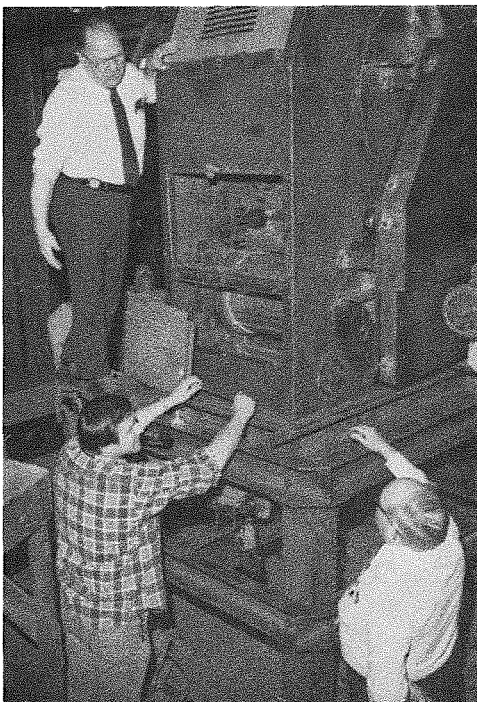

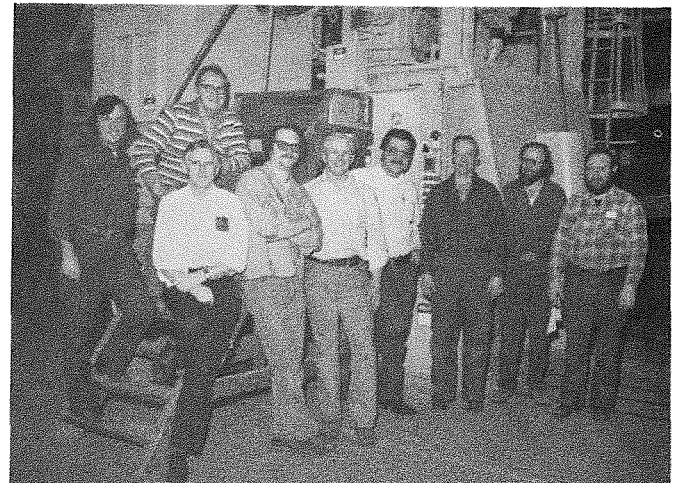

On camera are a few scenes of Wheelabrator's troubleshooter and showman extraordinaire Bruce Berger, and the crew from Assembly who completed the assembling of the show equipment.

The T-13 on our Assembly floor, freshly painted and ready for shipment to the show.

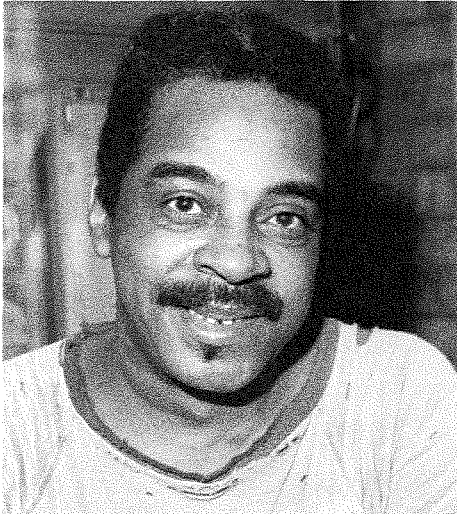

Bruce comments to the editor, "Stop worrying Mother, we haven't missed a show yet!"
