RUSS WADE SAVES WFI $$$. . . Early this year, Manufacturing Engineering's Russ Wade revised the hook designs for our Monorail Cabinets. Originally the hook was made from a manganese casting. The improved design requires that the hook be made as a manganese fabrication, which results in a reduction of the material needed to produce the hook, a reduction in labor hours and, most important, produces a more efficient functioning component of our Monorail Cabinets.

Senior Process Engineer Russ Wade (r) discusses his new design with Mike Stout (l), Senior N/C Programmer. Congratulations to Russ and his role in helping us to maintain our competitive position in the marketplace!

CANDIDS BY MONTE... We just can't file away all the neat photos not used in the quarterly retirement issue of Wheelagram! So, thanks to Engineering's Monte Visser and his camera, we offer the following:

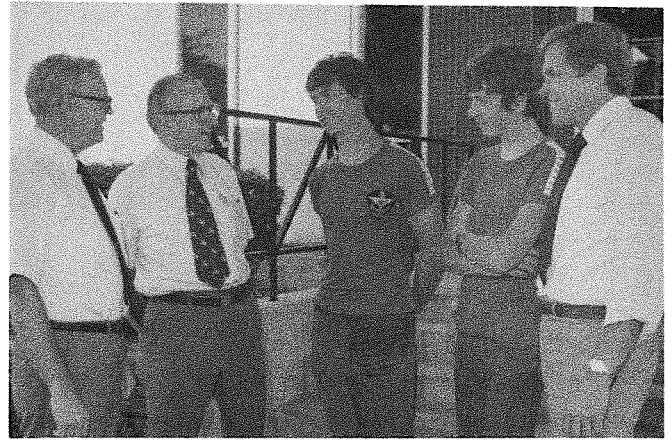

The International

Scene

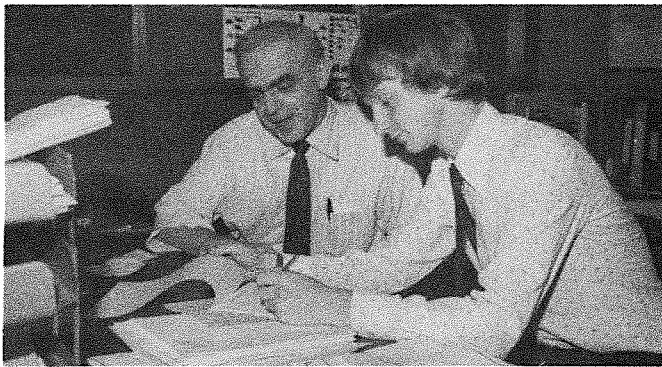

SPENDING THE MONTH OF JULY with Foundry Operations Plant Manager, Jim Converse and his family, were 17-year-old Julian Green and his 13-year-old brother Brett. The boys' father is Robert Green, General Manager, Metabrasives, Ltd., a Wheelabrator affiliate.

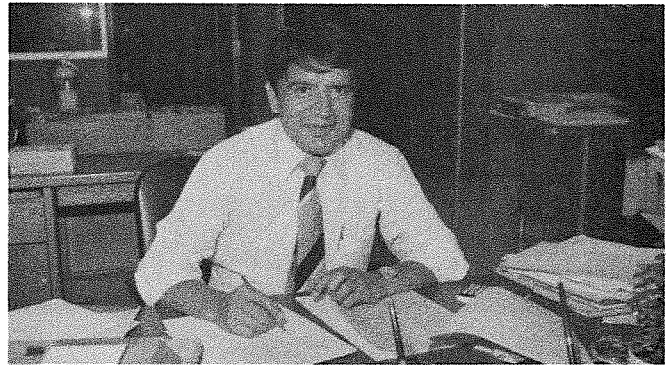

Having thoroughly enjoyed their visit with the Converse family, the boys said that "aside from their 10-year-old sister Kirsty, about the only thing they missed were church bells." Brett and Julian are members of an arch deaconry of church bell ringers in Staffordshire that gives performances all over the United Kingdom. Bell ringers must meet certain standards of ability to join the arch-deaconry. Groups of bell ringers even hold competitions in English churches, most of which have 6 to 12 bells. Unfortunately, the boys were unable to demonstrate their talents here — none of the local churches have enough bells!

CONGRATULATIONS to Joaquin de la Torre recently promoted to Controller, Wheelabrator de Mexico.

A PRE-BIRTHDAY SURPRISE was staged by the gang in Engineering Services for Dave who celebrates a birthday next Monday. There was birthday cake and, of course, an appropriately lettered tee shirt (right).

RECENTLY, Joaquin and Roger Hartley (l), Controller, Wheelabrator Sinto do Brasil, were in Mishawaka to familiarize themselves with our latest financial procedures, aided by Dale Ellis, Division Controller, whose area of responsibility includes our International Operations Division.

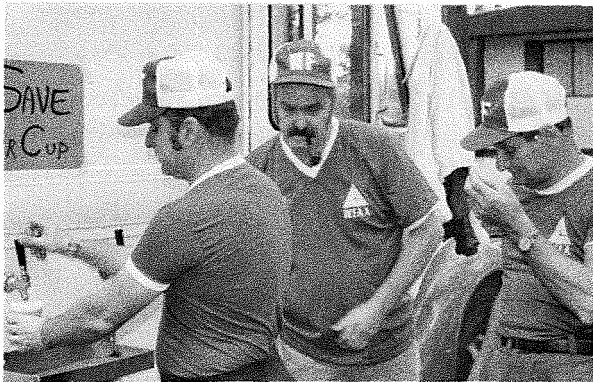

THE SCHOOLMASTER AND HIS FACULTY ON THE ROAD . . .
