THE GRADUATES . . . Early in December, personnel from Product & Process Development completed the Maintenance Training School, held on a weekly basis since early October. Bob Riordan (then Marketing Manager, now serving as General Manager PFD) conducted the last seminar covering the relationship between marketing and product.

Chief Engineer-Product and Process Development John Bergh pronounced the school a success, noting that the attending personnel demonstrated an increased level of proficiency as the school progressed. The attendees included technicians, chemists, metallurgists, and supervisors from all our product lines.
